Paint care tips

1. Store paint in a cool, dry place. Extreme temperatures can cause pigment settling and viscosity changes that may make the paint unusable.
2. Open paint containers should be used within 6 months. Unopened containers can be stored for up to 2 years. If opened at the end of its shelf life, paint should be used as quickly as possible.
3. To prevent cross-contamination of your paint, which can cause it to degrade and spoil, follow these steps:
 - Pour the amount of paint that will be used into smaller, resealable containers, like the Art Utility Cups on p. 96. These cups are also a great way to make your paint more portable and divide it up between students. Be sure to use fresh water to clean your brushes when working out of the smaller containers.
 - Do not pour used paint back into the original container.
 - Do not dilute paint in the original container.
 - Do not dip brushes or other applicators into the original container.
4. Close the cap tightly after each use and permanently remove and dispose of any seal on the container or in the cap.

Tips for extending the life of your brushes

- Teach students that taking care of their tools not only results in better work, but helps the school save money and possibly buy more art materials.
- Use the right brush for the right medium. Brush hairs are made specifically for particular mediums like watercolor, tempera, acrylics, or oils.
- Clean brushes immediately after painting so that paint doesn't sit or dry in the hairs.
- Don't let brushes soak in water for too long or the glue that holds the hairs in place will weaken.
- After cleaning, while the brush is still wet, reshape the hairs with your fingers to help them hold their shape.
- Unless brushes are completely dry, store them flat or hanging upside down to avoid water damaging the handle or the glue holding the hairs in place.

Art is for everyone!

Cognitive, physical, or social-emotional challenges can hinder a student’s ability to use traditional art media, tools, or techniques. Adaptive art is about understanding those challenges and meeting them head on.

“By incorporating adaptations into art curriculum, we allow students with special needs to feel a sense of empowerment, independence, and pride. We give them a vehicle to express themselves, advocate for themselves, and show us the things within them that they often times cannot otherwise express.”

– Annie Dudgeon, Beloit Turner High School, WI

Paper weight explained

Paper weight is listed in pounds (lbs.) and determined by weighing 500 sheets (a ream) in the basis size of that particular type of paper. The higher the weight, the thicker the paper.

Different types of paper can have different basis sizes. For example, drawing paper has a basis size of 24" x 36", while watercolor paper has a basis size of 22" x 30". A drawing paper and watercolor paper that are both listed as 80 lbs. are not necessarily the same thickness.

Cyanotype Printing Kit
This simple process employs two inexpensive chemicals and sunlight or UV. Make prints on any natural fiber. Coat fabric or paper with the cyanotype sensitizer and, once dry, create prints by exposing to sunlight or UV, using objects or a film negative to create an image. After exposure, process prints in a tray of cool water and allow to air dry. Includes everything needed to make 65 prints on 8½" x 11" paper or 50 prints on 8½" x 11" fabric.
9737678 — $12.60
Cyanotype Pretreated Paper. 30 sheets, 8½" x 11".
9737677 — $57.00

Create a composition and let the sun do the rest!

Nature Print® Paper
Nature Print® Paper undergoes a chemical change when exposed to sunlight. Images appear in minutes. Produce prints from natural or man-made objects and photo negatives. Arrange items on the paper and expose to sunlight for 2 to 3 minutes. Soak in water for a minute, then dry. The images you created will sharpen during drying.
Pkg. of 20. 11" x 17" sheets.

Cyanotype Art and Science Kit
Kit combines science with art as students learn about this original photographic process from the 19th century. Cyanotype solution can be applied to any 100% natural fiber substrate. Kit treats approximately 200 paper sheets (8" x 10") or approximately 12 square yards of fabric depending on weight. Kit includes premeasured cyanotype chemicals; 1-qt. mixing can with sealable lid; mixing spoon; foam brush for painting; UV-safe bag to store treated paper or fabric; pair of gloves; mask; complete mixing, treating, and printing instructions; and Safety Data Sheet (SDS). Environmentally safe and nontoxic.
9740589 — $24.30

Cyanotype Cotton Squares
Make detailed archival prints in four easy steps without using a darkroom. The 100% high-quality cotton (250 thread count) is fully cyanotype treated on both sides and ready for printing. Washable in nonphosphate detergent. Environmentally safe and nontoxic.
Pkg. of 25, 6" x 6".
9740583 — $21.30

Cyanotype Cotton Mural
This 19th century photographic process uses the sun to print designs. The 100% high-quality cotton muslin (200 thread count) is fully cyanotype treated on both sides and ready for printing. Simple four-step process takes 15 minutes and provides prints with beautiful yellow or sepia brown tones. Prints are archival quality and can be washed in nonphosphate detergent without hurting the image. Environmentally safe and nontoxic. White. 6' x 8'.
9740584 — $43.60

Design and Print Fabric Squares
Blueprint original designs with film or other objects through sun exposure. Arrange and pin objects or film on squares and expose to sunlight. Print is fixed by rinsing in water. Set of 50, 6" x 6", 100% cotton fabric squares.

Tips for rehydrating ceramic clay that needs TLC

- If your clay is ... Find ceramic clays on pp. 297–299
- Somewhat moist but cracking
Cut clay into large pieces, wrap in a damp terry towel, and place in a plastic bag. In about 24 hours, clay will be ready to use.
 - Hard but can still be cut with wire
Slide clay into 2" thick slabs and create deep holes with the handle of a fettling knife. Place a slab in a plastic bag and fill the holes with water. Add another slab on top and repeat. Seal the bag and clay will be ready in a couple days.
 - Hard and impossible to cut with wire
Let clay completely dry out. While wearing a mask in a well-ventilated area, use a hammer to break clay up into golf-ball-sized pieces. Put pieces into a bucket and add water. After a few minutes, clay will break down into a slip. Place slip on unpainted plywood or drywall until it's dried out enough to knead and use.

Potter's Wheels – Built Tough For Schools

Skutt Kilns has joined forces with Thomas Stuart Potter's Wheels to form Skutt Potter's Wheels. Their durability, usability, and precision are unmatched in the industry due to their unique continuous-duty motors and a removable wheel head design.

Skutt Thomas Stuart Wheels

- Easy to clean — One-piece splash pans won't leak – carry whole unit to the sink.
- Long lasting — Industrial high-torque motors last long and meet the needs of all skill levels.
- Built tough — Heavy powder-coated cast-iron construction handles abuse and won't slide around.
- Smooth — Six-groove drive belt and high-quality controller.
- Power — Large high-torque motors center more clay and last longer.
- Design — Removable wheel heads and powder-coating make cleanup easy.
- Durable — Heavy-duty cast-aluminum bases are virtually indestructible.

M. Orton Self-Supporting Cones

Pyrometric cones measure heatwork (the effect of time and temperature) and verify temperature uniformity. Made from approximately 100 careful compositions. Each cone number is unique in measuring temperature within a small temperature range (less than 30° C). Cones measure amount of heat absorbed. As cone nears maturing range, it softens and the tip begins to bend, drawn down by gravity. Box of 25.

Skutt EnviroLink™

EnviroLink™ allows your controller to turn your EnviroVent2™ on or off based on how you program your kiln. Easy to install — simply plug your vent into the EnviroLink™ and connect the control wire from the EnviroLink™ into output 4 of your KilnMaster™ controller. If you have a KilnMaster™ kiln with a LinkBoard it is even easier — just plug the control wire into the socket on the side of the kiln. Allow extra delivery time. 🚚

Z47982 — $190.50

Skutt EnviroVent2™ Ventilation System

Designed to extract fumes from an electric kiln and vent them outdoors. Vent is wall mounted, moving the vent motor away from under the kiln so the motor is not exposed to the heat and cannot transfer any vibration into the kiln. Since vent is wall mounted, it pulls air through the duct work instead of pushing it so if a leak ever formed in the duct work, the fumes would not be pushed into the room. The 120V motor allows you to vent 2 kilns up to 12 cu. ft. each, or one kiln between 12 and 24 cu. ft. An additional adapter kit is needed to vent two kilns. Heat exiting blower is 160° F maximum. VOLTAGE, PHASE, AND AMPERAGE — THE TERMS YOU NEED TO KNOW

Correctly match an electric kiln to the electrical service available on-site

- Voltage is the amount of electrical current supplied to the location. Some schools and businesses have 208V, while 240V is the most common for the majority of residential buildings.
- Phase refers to the number of current-carrying wires supplying electrical current to the location. Single-Phase has 2 live wires and 1 ground wire, and is common in residential buildings. 3-Phase has 3 live wires and 1 ground wire, and is usually found only in businesses and institutions, such as schools.
- Amperage refers to the rate or intensity of the current at the location. If more appliances are being used on the same line than the available intensity, the amperage drops. It is always advisable that a kiln have its own dedicated electrical line.
- We highly recommend that an electrician inspect the site to determine the exact electrical service available where the kiln will be hooked up. Please ask for written documentation of the electrical requirements of the site where your kiln will be installed.

THE SAFE AND EASY
ALTERNATIVE TO LINOLEUM

Hands-on learning puts understanding in the palm of their hands

Nasco Safety-Kut® Printmaking Material
The original Safety-Kut®—first in safety and quality. Greatly reduces the possibility of classroom accidents usually associated with lino block printmaking. Cuts very smoothly without skipping. Won't slip away from user while carving. 3/8" thickness allows for printing on both sides and is great for beginners who may dig into the material. Does not crack, break, or crumble like traditional linoleum and other soft printing blocks. Score, bend, and then tear the blocks to make smaller pieces. Use on various types of roto presses as well as in a linoleum block printing press, or just apply simple pressure to the block or circle. Rubbing tools are optional.

handles

A. 23" Large Master Etch Press

Easy-turn handles operate finely threaded and calibrated pressure adjusters. Phenolic press plate is a lightweight, nonporous, noncompressible material that will not rust. Prints up to 22" x 35" may be pulled on the bed that measures 23 5/8" x 36". Dual calibration pressure markings allow for both speed in the initial rough adjustment and accuracy in the fine tuning. Spring-assisted, smoothly ground, chrome-plated 4" upper roll and lathe-turned 3" lower roll are solid steel and ride on industrial-quality, long-life roller bearings. Fully enclosed steel gears drive the lower roll at a 3.33 to 1 ratio, resulting in easy pulling of all types of intaglio (etching, engraving, aqua tint, dry point) and collagraph prints, including mounted linoleum up to 7/8" thick. Total clearance without blanket is 1 5/8". Super-strength Tenzaloy castings, rather than cast iron, form the frame, another element that meets the strength requirements while avoiding extra weight and the possibility of rust. The feet are pre-drilled for attachment to any work bench. A 1/4" thick cushion blanket is included with the press. Allow extra delivery time. 🚚

Z16921 — $5,000.00

11" Econo Etch Baby Press

Simple, direct-drive presses in which the lower roll turns 360° when the two-point handle turns 360°. More effort is required to pull a print than in a geared press, but the small size of the press keeps the effort moderate. Suitable for etching calligraphy, paper plate lithography, and unmounted linoleum block printing, as well as embossing. Total clearance is 1 5/16". Perfect for greeting cards. Print size: 9 1/2" x 18", base dimensions: 10 3/4" L x 13 1/4" W, bed size: 19 3/4" L x 11 3/4" W. Does not include bed or blanket. Allow extra delivery time. 🚚

B. 19" Medium Model 999 Press with Stand

This press is a great value, incorporating many fine qualities of larger presses like the 23" Large Press (Z16921) at a very affordable price. Built for studio or classroom use. Base dimensions: 21 1/2" W x 30" L. Includes press, plate, blanket, and stand. Allow extra delivery time. 🚚

C. 13" Small Model 906 Press with Stand

Economical press incorporates many of the features of larger presses. Gear driven for easy pulling of etchings, drypoints, engravings, collagraphs, linoleum block prints, and paper plate lithographs. Features heavy-duty castings and solid steel rollers. The macro and micro pressure gauges ensure that the perfect amount of pressure is applied to each print. 4 1/2" dia., lathe-turned upper roll may be raised to accommodate mounted linoleum up to 7/8" thick. Total clearance without blanket is 1 1/4". Makes up to 12" x 26" prints. Includes press, phenolic plate, blanket, and stand. Plate and blanket are 26" in length. Allow extra delivery time. 🚚

Z30406 — $2,225.00

Block Printing Press

Lightweight press provides even pressure for excellent reproduction of prints up to 8". Perfect for small runs, cards, and student projects. All-metal construction. Handles mounted or unmounted linoleum.

Nasco Steel Art Room Tables
Durable, ¾" thick, solid phenolic resin tabletops resist wear, scratches, chemicals, moisture, and impact. Closed, nonporous work surface does not attract dirt and can be cleaned with normal cleaning agents or strong disinfectants. Tabletops fastened to the frame with heavy screws. 14-gauge steel table aprons are 2" tall, allowing for more leg room without sacrificing strength. Each corner fastened with two type-23 flange bolts, ⅜", to keep them tight. Adjustable, stainless steel, 1½" dia. glides help level the table for a secure workspace — adjustable up to 1". The 11-gauge steel legs are 1¼" square, so they won't bend. All tables are 30"H and made of a heavy-duty, powder-coated welded steel. ADA access with 2" apron. Allow extra delivery time. 🚚

Color mapping and mindfulness

Objectives

- Students will...
- Create a nonobjective watercolor painting
 - Learn about topographical maps
 - Practice mindfulness during the art-making process

Aligned to National Core Arts Anchor Standards
Creating VA:Cr3.1.3a
Responding VA:Re.7.1.3a

Materials list

- Watercolor paper (9730645) — p. III
- Watercolors (NE20186) — p. 20
- Paintbrushes (9704001) — p. 70
- Fine-point and ultra-fine-point Sharpie® markers — pp. 220–221

Instructions

Day 1

- On the first day, students will create two nonobjective watercolor paintings and will choose one to continue on Day 2.
1. Start by having a brief discussion with students on the differences between realistic and nonobjective/abstract artworks. Tell students that today they will be creating paintings that are nonobjective, meaning they focus on shape, color, and line.
 2. Next, review the color wheel and warm and cool colors. This will be important when students begin their paintings.
 3. Begin painting! Have students create a wash of water on watercolor paper using a clean wet brush.
 4. Then, have them choose a color to start in one corner. They can use this color to begin making amorphous shapes and lines. Encourage students to put colors that are near each other on the color wheel near each other. For example, if they begin with red, they should place yellow or orange next to it.
 5. After students have finished their first painting, have them create a second one. They may want to try different colors, shapes, or lines than the ones they used in their first painting.
- Optional: Have students use only warm or only cool colors for an entire painting. The more colors and shapes the students use during the painting stage will make for an even more interesting final product.

Day 2

1. Begin by looking at topographic maps together. Have students identify the lines, patterns, and shapes they see in these maps. Ask them how they think these maps are created.
 2. Tell them that topographic maps are a great example of what their finished artworks might look like. Everyone's piece will be a little different.
 3. Have students choose one of the paintings they made in the first session to work on in this next stage.
 4. Using fine-point and ultra-fine-point permanent black markers, demonstrate how you'd like students to outline the lines and shapes they find in their dried watercolor paintings. It may help to instruct them to work from bigger shapes they find, to smaller shapes and lines. Students can pretend their painting is a map and that all the information for their lines and shapes is already there. All they need to do is be an explorer and find them!
 5. Before students get started, ask them to work slowly and mindfully. This could take more than one class period. To create a more mindful experience, consider dimming the lights, having silent work time, and playing soothing music. While students are working, remind them to take deep breaths, go slowly, and take breaks if they need to.
- Optional: Once students have completed this portion, or as an extension for early finishers, have them add in some additional line weight by using a larger point permanent marker.

Affirmation animal prints

Objectives

Students will...

- Identify positive affirmations about themselves
- Use simile to connect an animal to their positive affirmation about themselves
- Explore various printmaking techniques and processes
- Prepare and present their work

Instructions

Day 1: Introduce affirmations

1. Define personal affirmations as anything you say or think about yourself. All our self-talk, both negative and positive, consists of affirmations. Discuss how students can practice self-empowerment by stating only positive affirmations in their self-talk. This can retrain their brains to think positively about themselves.
2. Then ask students to think of positive affirmations about themselves to share with the class (for example, "I am caring."). Write a list of the responses.
3. Give every student a sheet of scratch paper. Have everyone write one positive affirmation at their paper, such as "I am energetic."
4. Next, have students think about animals that could be used to describe their positive trait. Share some examples, such as clever like a fox, brave like a lion, caring like a penguin, intelligent like a dolphin, or kind like a bunny. Have them brainstorm similes on their scratch paper.
5. Then have students each select and draw an animal that represents one of the positive affirmations they wrote.

Day 2: Introduce printmaking

1. Explain to students that printmaking is the process of transferring images from a matrix onto another surface, such as paper or fabric. Tell students that today they will create a matrix of their animal using polystyrene foam.
2. Have students tape their finished animal drawings onto 4" x 6" polystyrene foam sheets.
3. Then have them firmly trace their animal drawings, embedding the images onto the polystyrene foam underneath.
4. They should then lift their papers and retrace their animal drawings using a pencil. Remind them to press down firmly, leaving a noticeable impression.
5. Then have them carefully cut out the animal. Have each artist write their name on the back of their foam.

Day 3: Review printmaking

1. Tell students that today they will transfer their animals from their polystyrene foam matrixes onto paper.
2. Give each student six sheets of 4" x 6" white printing paper.
3. Have them write their names in the corner of each of their papers.
4. Then have students use washable or watercolor markers to add color to their animal matrix. They may apply one or more colors across the entire surface.
5. Have them use a wet sponge to dampen one of the 4" x 6" printing papers, and then place it wet side down on top of the animal matrix.
6. Students should make a fist and gently burnish (rub) the back of the paper, transferring the marker onto the paper.
7. When done, have them carefully pull back the paper and place it in a safe place to dry. Students should repeat this process to create a total of six prints.

Day 4: Review printmaking

1. Tell students that today they will explore a different printmaking technique that uses texture rubbing plates. They will use these prints as a background for their animal prints.
2. Have students select four sheets of different colored printing paper and write their names on the back.
3. Then have them place a nickel-size amount of ink onto the center of their inking plates and use a brayer to roll the ink evenly across the plate. Once the brayer is covered, have them apply the ink to the surface of the texture plate.
4. Next, have them place their sheets of paper (color side down) on top of their texture plates.
5. Have them burnish (rub) the back of the paper using a fist or a baron.
6. Then have them pull the print off the texture plate and place it in a safe place to dry.
7. They should repeat the previous steps to create a total of four or more prints. Encourage them to explore different color inks and texture plates.

Day 5: Present work

1. Tell students that today they will complete and present their prints.
2. Have each student select their four best animal and texture prints.
3. Then have them carefully cut out each animal print, leaving a thin white border around the edge.
4. Have them glue the animal print onto one of the texture prints.
5. Give each student four sheets of 9" x 12" black construction paper and four white strips of paper the width of their prints (they will write their affirmations on these).
6. Then have them glue their completed prints onto the center of the black construction paper and glue their affirmations beneath their completed prints.
7. Next, have students present their work to the class.
8. Once students have presented, have them choose one print to display in your exhibit space.

Oaxacan pattern animals

Objectives

Students will...

- Discuss the patterns and designs that are found in traditional Oaxacan art and alebrijes
- Identify the work of painter and sculptor Pedro Linares
- Create patterns out of lines and shapes
- Identify ways artists show repetition and contrast in their work

Instructions for elementary students

Day 1

1. Introduce the art of Pedro Linares and images of other Mexican folk art. Have students discuss their observations and patterns in the paintings, textiles, and alebrijes sculptures.
2. Then, have students brainstorm what shapes and lines they could use to make a simple animal drawing. For example, a sea turtle is made up of a series of curved lines.
3. After students draw their simple animal outline in pencil, have them trace it with a black crayon or marker, making sure to have thick outlines.

Day 2

1. Have students fill the insides of their animals with repetitive patterns of lines and shapes.
2. Explain to students that each space they are creating with the dividing lines will be painted, so the more lines they have, the more tiny spaces they will need to paint.
3. Students should then add a contrasting pattern to the background. If they used shapes and lines inside their animal, the background could be dotted (and vice versa).

Day 3

1. Have students continue their drawings if they haven't finished.
2. Then, have them add color to the body of their animals to further emphasize the contrast with their black-and-white backgrounds. They should use a variety of neon colors, painting within the black lines they created.

- Glue stick (for older grades) (9716152) — p. 427
- Scissors (for older grades) (9731962) — p. 441

Instructions for middle schoolers

Day 1

1. Introduce the artwork of Pedro Linares and images of Mexican folk art. Talk about how Linares' original alebrijes were hybrid creatures, containing qualities from the four elements — Earth, Air, Water, and Fire.
2. Then, have students brainstorm and research two or more animals that have characteristics relating to the four elements. Students could use the elements to inspire their animal choices, drawings, or color choices.
3. Have students draw their animals or animal hybrids, coloring them with colored pencils or leaving them black and white and using a black marker to outline. They can also use a black marker to add patterns and designs.

Day 2

1. Have students finish their animal drawings.
2. Then, have them make painted paper using neon acrylic paint. They will need to make 2–3 painted papers each. Their paintings should take up the whole paper and be more than one color. (Optional: Have students add texture to the wet paint with repeated lines or patterns using dull pencils, Q-tips, dowels, or paint texture tools.)

Day 3

1. Students should carefully cut out their animal drawings and glue them on top of their painted paper collages.
2. Give them the option to cut their painted paper into lines or shapes that they glue to black construction paper before they mount their animal on it.

The art of personal storytelling

Objectives

Students will...

- Understand the storytelling themes present in the artwork of Faith Ringgold and Romare Bearden
- Analyze and discuss the narrative elements, symbols, and artistic elements in the selected artworks
- Create their own storytelling artwork
- Extend their learning by writing a poem or story inspired by their artwork or the artwork of another student

- Yarn (9713188) — p. 365
- Beads (9727983) — p. 381
- Newspaper and magazines

Instructions

Introduction (5–10 minutes)

1. Engage students in a discussion about diversity and storytelling through art. Start by introducing Faith Ringgold and Romare Bearden, artists known for their narrative artwork that focuses on diverse subjects and depictions of people's everyday lives.
2. Show specific examples of their artworks that portray narratives, cultural stories, or personal experiences.
3. Lead a discussion using questions such as the following:
 - What stories do you think the artists are telling through their artwork?
 - What colors, lines, patterns, and textures do you see? How do they help tell the story?
 - What cultural elements or symbols do you notice in the artworks? (Trains, roosters, church events, hats, buildings, musical instruments, words)
 - How do these symbols give you clues about the artist's life?
 - What types of media do you see? (Painted paper, collage, paint, ink, fabric, etc.)

Exploring personal narratives (25–40 minutes)

1. Then, have students think about the stories about their lives that they want to tell with their own artwork. These could include favorite childhood memories or a common scene from their neighborhood. Have them make a list of ideas and then quickly do a thumbnail sketch of each one to see which composition they like best. After students have chosen their scene, encourage them to think about the variety of materials they want to use, as well as cultural or personal symbols they want to incorporate. They can also incorporate words or sentences that are important to them.
2. Provide a variety of pencils, markers, paint, paper, paper dolls, face cutouts, and mixed media, including yarn, beads, fabric, and patterned origami paper to create the background, furniture, people, clothing, and objects in their artwork.
3. Before students begin, demonstrate how to incorporate mixed media techniques by combining different art materials to add depth and texture.
4. When students are finished, have them think about what they would like to name their piece. Then display finished artwork with the name of the piece next to it.

Writing extension (25–40 minutes)

1. Partner with classroom teachers to introduce the extension component during core class time. Explain that both art and writing can be forms of storytelling and that they are going to use art as inspiration for their writing.
2. Instruct students to choose either their own artwork or the artwork of another student to write a poem or a short story about.
3. Encourage them to explore the emotions and ideas the artwork suggests. They should use descriptive words to activate the senses. What does the artwork make them see, hear, feel, smell, or taste?

Sharing and community building extension (30 minutes)

1. Ask each student to present their artwork and read their story or poem aloud to the class. Encourage active listening and positive feedback and emphasize the importance of creating a supportive community where everyone's voices are valued and celebrated.
2. After each presentation, facilitate a brief discussion where students can offer compliments, ask questions, or share their thoughts on the themes and messages conveyed. Encourage students to provide constructive feedback, focusing on the strengths and unique qualities of each artwork and written piece.
